A golden rock

20 Jul 2019

This is one of the place that we visit in our Myanmar's trip. We drive around 6 hours from Yangon to Kyaiktiyo. Visitors have to take truck to reach the top of the mountain. Seats are not so comfortable but we felt excited with the driver's driving skill because it felt like we were in a roller coaster. We can choose to change to cable car in the middle of the mountain. We overnight at the bottom of the mountain. Visitors can bring some snacks for donation to the monks. You can see monks ask for donation of foods in the early of the morning, around 7am.

Nice high land ... with amazing pagoda on the golden stone

16 Jun 2019

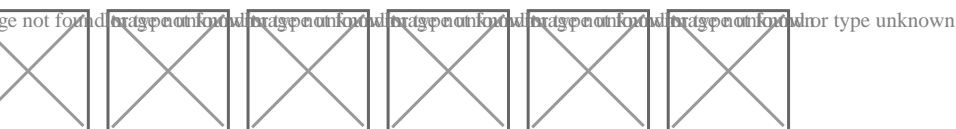

1) avoid rainy day 2) they using Lorry to transport visitors up hill . The journey is thrilling if possible avoid sitting at the end side of the coach

reasonable

03 Jan 2019

It was cheaply cheaper than the other tours and the guide was also very kind. The car was also very good with the car of Toyota. However, the people who were allowed to sit four in the back seat were narrow and poor.

Must visit regardless of religions

13 Dec 2018

It's spectacular. It's possible to make an one-day trip from Yangon. We hired a van with a driver and left Yangon around 6am. Arrived in Kyaiktiyo around 9h30 and then left the place in the early hours of afternoon, 3pm. The trips with the truck up and down to the Golden Rock were a bit bizarre. It was during the water festival, so we got soaking wet from the moment the truck left its base, all the way up to the Rock. But more bizarre is the way how local people jumped the queue to get seats in the back side of the truck. Hi the truck drivers were so skilled, they must know every stone on that route. On the top, the distance for bare feet is rather long for the heat we had between 11am-2pm. I got my (under)feet burnt due to the heat even though we tried to only step on white tiles which absorb less heat from the sun. But the total experience was wonderful, worth making the efforts.

Amazing view

05 Nov 2018

Breathtaking view of Yangon. Went there in the evening and the view is well worth the price of entry - one drink included. Must be very beautiful at sunset.
