Day 4: Hoi An City Tour

From the 16th to 18th centuries, Hoian was a thriving international commercial port for Chinese, Dutch, French, Japanese, and Portuguese and Arab traders. These people came primarily to trade in high grade silk, which is still produced in the area, as well as ceramics.

Today, Hoian is a quaint riverside town, popular with tourists for its eclectic architecture, tailor shops, and numerous cafes. Some of the buildings in the narrow streets have remained unchanged for more than a century. We enjoy a half-day walking tour through the narrow winding streets of the Ancient Quarter, visiting Chua Ong Pagoda, Chinese Assembly Halls, the 200-year old Tan Ky ancestral house, and the Japanese Bridge.

After lunch we take a short boat trip to a nearby island to visit a handicraft village specializing in ceramics, and also the boat building yards. Hoi An is now one of UNESCO's fifth World Heritage designated sites in Vietnam. Then, back to your hotel. Evening is free at leisure.

Mingun definitely worth seeing

05 Dec 2019

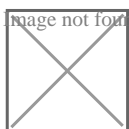

There are several places to visit in and around Mingun, it is definitely worth coming here on a day trip it's not far from Mandalay but there are many interesting things to see on the way. This particular place was very beautiful as well as most of the others.

Great view over Mandalay

04 Aug 2019

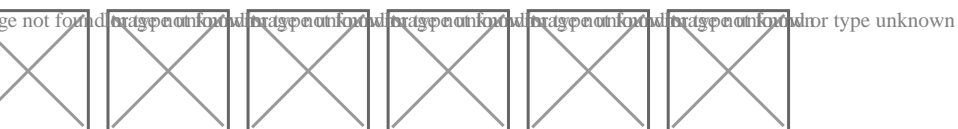

Worth a trip up to the hill to view over Mandalay and surrounding areas especially the mountain region to the northwest. The temples are nice, make sure you see where everyone offers money to the snake. A small market on the way down. Did not stay for sunset as the cloud cover was low.

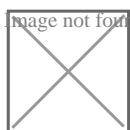

pagoda on a hill

15 May 2019

Mandalay Hill with its Pagoda was lovely a beautiful view, the best time is on dusk it is spectacular, the whole thing was very interesting. Pagoda and Monastery and really great for photos. I found the history interesting as we had an English speaking guide who could tell us all about Mandalay Hill also what a lot of the buildings were that we were looking down on. a lot of people do the walk up the hill which is quite steep but we had a car. Walked up all the stairs to get to the lookout on top but took the elevator down if you go to Mandalay it is worth doing all the all the Pagodas this one is a must

The imperial life

07 Apr 2019

The imperial city is a must when traveling to Hue. The tour is well organized and commented by well retired history. Of course, do not expect to be alone, many tourists invade the place.

Hue Imperial Palace

17 Jan 2019

I read a review earlier about seeing this place. They were absolutely correct, a lot of history. You will need someone to translate. If you are like me and dont speak Vietnamese. Take water if you decide to do this in the heat like I did. I didnt make it through the whole site, it is huge. But the main highlight was the building that had the former kings, very interesting.
